

Stefano Bartolini is Associate Professor of Economics in the Department of Political Economy at University of Siena. His research interests are Social capital, well-being, growth, development, environmental resources, labor, law and economics. He is specialised in happiness economics and the measurement of subjective Well-Being.

His main recent activities are organizer of events, speaker at conferences, workshops and summer schools and participation to scientific and organizing committees, as:

- o in January 2010, at the International Conference "Growth in Transition" at Austrian Academy of Sciences in Viena, where he was Invited speaker;.
- o in December 2009, at the International Conference "From GDP to Well-Being: Economics on the Road to Sustainability" in Ancona, in Italy, where he was member of the organizing committee and speaker
- in October 2009 at the 3rd OECD World Forum on Statistics, Knowledge and Policy: Charting Progress, Building Visions, Improving Life last year in Busan in South Korea He was also invited speaker.

He does also some consulting and collaborations, like in September 2008, he collaborated with the OECD for the Global Project or in 1999, he worked as short term consultant for the World Bank.

Some recent publications are:

- o Manifesto per la felicità, Donzelli, Rome, 2010;
- o "Endogenous growth, decline in social capital and expansion of market activities", (with L. Bonatti), Journal of Economic Behavior and Organization, 67 (3), p.917-926, 2008;
- "The role of social capital in enhancing factor productivity: does its erosion depress per-capita GDP?" (with L. Bonatti), Journal of Socio-Economics, 37 (4), p.1539-1553, 2008;
- "The mobilization of human resources as an effect of the depletion of environmental and social assets", (with L. Bonatti), Metroeconomica, 57, pp.193-213, 2006;
- o "Negative externalities, defensive expenditures and labor supply in an evolutionary context" (with A. Antoci), Environment and Development Economics, 9, pp. 591-612, 2004.